

AMONG THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

Japanese Are Confident.
Much has been said about the Japs coming to this country to enter the army and navy of the empire. A Boise man who speaks English fairly well, who has been interviewed on the subject, has appeared to be well informed and talked freely about the matter.

He said the Japs are going home excited and there are not very many of them in this part of the country. He thought only six or seven would be sent from Idaho. The Japs would be sent from the young men who were healthy looking young men of fine physique not over 23 or 24 years of age. When asked why he thought they would go to the defense of his country he said he was not a soldier, that he had never been trained, and if he had he would have examined him and if he was sound, and he would have probably have to pay some money to get in.

He thought Russia would get whipped and did not believe his country was needed. He said all the soldiers in this country who were sent to the reserves had been sent to the reserves to be sure to fight for their native country to fight for the emperor, and to die for him if necessary. In some of the large cities he said there were a lot of soldiers, but not in Idaho.

E. & N. Has Perfect Roadbed.

Idaho City has some advantages over the main line of a great transportation system. A merchant who has just returned from the East says that the Union Pacific all the way from Omaha to Green River has been built to be solid and smooth. The road to Portland is rapid, approaching that of perfection. Twenty-pound steel rails and ballast are doing the work. The business demands fast time and money, and these can only be obtained by hauling big trains, big engines, which require big rails on a solid, straight, roadbed.
